Forgotten Books, United States, 2015. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 229 x 152 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.Excerpt from Papers to Be Read Local educational administrators, private correspondents of position, representatives of the teaching profession (apparently, if internal evidence is a guide, almost exclusively connected with elementary schools) were all in a gloomy mood when they answered the Principals questions, and the grand total of their accumulated testimony amounted to dissatisfaction, if not to pessimism. Modern education, he inferred (in what follows I do not quote his words, but translate the inferences of his address into words of my own), might quicken wits, but is giving slight ballast to character. It results, perhaps, in a volatile intelligence, but produces little of intellectual grasp. Somehow or other, and nobody can precisely say why, its results were disappointing, its future doubtful, its expense enormous. The National Education Bill had run up to nearly thirty million pounds a year. What was there to show for it Boys who were careless about their work, wanton levity of sudden strikes in the sphere of labour, self-indulgence and a passion for material things among the rich, a craving for wealth among those less well-to-do, a dimness of ideal, a faltering of judgment, an absorption in trivial amusements, these were the signs of some unwholesome habit in the body politic. The teachers, those who stand nearest to the actual work of education, instead of being buoyant with how or quietly confident in the growing success of their labours, were querulous, grumbling at the conditions of their lot, crying for the moon. The local educational administrators, the engineers who turn the handle of the great bureaucratic machine, seemed a little pleased with the conditions of their employment. They appear to have expressed...
