Excerpt: .partly despoiled of its brass, commemorates Edward Shurley, the next possessor of the estate, who died in 1579. But the most attractive memorial is to Sir John Shurley (ob. 1631), with recumbent effigies of himself and his two wives, and kneeling figures of his nine children. Of the second wife Dorothy, daughter of George Goring, Esq., of Danny, and widow of Sir Henry Bowyer, of Cuckfield, the epitaph states that she possessed a merite beyond most of her time; for her purse was open to a prophet s name; her pitty was the clothing of the poore; her piety the mother of her practice; her devotions were her daily offerings to God; her mercy sure against condemnation; and all her minutes were but steppes to heaven. There is also a plain tomb to Robert, son of Sir John Shurley, Lord Chief Justice of Ireland,...
